This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

INTRODUCTORY NOTICE.

WHEN Mr Feltham published his "Tour through the Island of Mann, in 1798," he contemplated in the "Parochial Tour" to insert a record of all the monumental Inscriptions then to be found in the Churches and Churchyards in the Island, and at page 226 of the Manx Society's reprint of his work, vol. vi, he remarks "that in going to the respective parishes, I took down every inscription in every churchyard except one, (Kirk Braddan,) but they occupy such a space that I am deterred from printing them in this volume, yet hope to present them at a future period, as a treasure to the inhabitants, in some detached and cheap form." The original manuscript in which these inscriptions are recorded is in the possession of Paul Bridson, Esq., of Douglas, one of the hon. secretaries of the Society, the Council of which, considering they were not incorporated in the Rev. Mr. Airey's Reprint of the "Tour," think they will form an acceptable addenda to that work, particularly as Mr Feltham's intention of printing them in a cheap form has never been carried out. The manuscript has accordingly been placed in the present Editor's hands to superintend its passing through the press, and in order to render it a more complete record of "the frail memorial of the dead," up to that period, the inscriptions which were printed in the "Tour" have been again given in the present volume.

It is not the intention of the Editor to trace the History of Monumental Inscriptions from the earliest period; numerous examples are to be found scattered throughout the Island of Runic inscriptions from the ninth to the thirteenth century, which have been depicted in the works of Kinnebrook and Cumming, or of those still earlier records which have yet to be deciphered in the Cup memorials discovered in various parts of the Isle of Man during the visit of the Cambrian Society in the autumn of 1865.

The Greeks and Romans have given us numerous examples of the Epitaphs of their day; to Camden we turn for the earlier records of this kind in Great Britain, and which have been ably followed up by Weaver, who wrote in the time of Charles I. his "Ancient Funeral Monuments within the United Monarchie of Great Britaine, Ireland, &c.;" by the "Monumenta Anglicana" of John Le Neve, in 5 vols., 1719, and in Gough's "Sepulchral Monuments in Great Britain," 3 vols., 1796. A work of the same kind relating to Scotland is to be found in Monteith's collection of "An Theater of Mortality," published in Edinburgh, 1704 and 1713, and now become very scarce. Attempts have been made to induce the Society of Antiquaries to take up this department of History by lending their aid in making a collection of Monumental and other Inscriptions worthy of the country, but without any result. Various collections of Epitaphs have from time to time appeared, one of the latest, which enters most fully into the subject, giving numerous examples, preceded by an Essay, is entitled "Chronicles of the Tombs," by Thos. Jos. Pettigrew, F.S.A., 1857, whose observations on the importance of Monumental Inscriptions in the elucidation of local history are so much in accordance with the objects of the Manx Society that the Editor submits the following extract:—

"The importance of monuments and inscriptions in the illustration of local history cannot be too strongly maintained; but for these, how many persons and events worthy of remembrance would have remained unknown, and how many testimonials of affectionate regard and filial gratitude neglected? Nam multos veterum, velut inglorios et ignobiles, oblivio obruet. By epitaphial records the antiquary, the historian, and the biographer obtain legitimate sources of inquiry, and are enabled to do justice to the memory of many deserving individuals, whose laudable conduct and advancement of public and private benefit might otherwise be forgotten. Again, how frequent has been the complaint of writers of the illegible, ill-preserved, or altogether annihilated inscriptions upon monumental tombs, the possession of which might have served to solve a doubt or dispel a mystery. Yet no fixed method has hitherto been adopted to secure so desirable a result. Much benefit, I am disposed to believe, would arise from the establishment of a Public Register of Inscriptions. They ought not to be left to the chance of lasting record by the hands of the local historian or topographer. Many circumstances have contributed to render our literature in this department defective. Our Church books contain no records of this description, and the political, civil, and religious disturbances with which this kingdom has been in various times affected have tended to the destruction and removal of a very large portion of the most interesting monuments of this description. The suppression of the monasteries and the subsequent iconoclastic rage of the Puritans also greatly contributed to the removal of monumental tombs, brasses, and inscriptions, containing the memorials of those who had distinguished themselves in the page of history, subjects for the pen of the historian and panegyrist, and giving employment to the artizans of their time. The great neglect of monuments, when disturbed or removed by the general repair of churches, is exceedingly to be lamented. No register is to be found of innumerable examples which are known to have been formerly in the churches of this country. No traces whatever of many of them are now to be found."

After the lapse of seventy years since Mr Feltham caused a copy of these records of the tombs to be taken, it is to be expected that some of them from various causes have disappeared, and more particularly when we take into account many of the churches have during the time either been rebuilt or restored,—that fertile source of destruction of this kind. It is, however, greatly to the credit of the Manx people that they have ever shown great reverence for the remains of the dead, as witness the numerous ruins of Treen chapels, erected ages ago, and around which many of their progenitors repose; these, although in many instances situated in the midst of cultivated lands, remain for the most part undisturbed to the present day. Yew trees, as Mr Feltham remarks in his "Tour," which are so generally found in the churchyards in England, are not to be found in those of Man; neither is it the custom, as in Wales, to decorate the grave with flowers, probably because the Manxman enjoys more of connubial bliss than is recorded in a Welsh epitaph:—

> "This spot is the sweetest I've seen in my life,
> For it raises my flowers and covers my wife."

There are few monuments in the Isle of Man with any pretension to artistic taste. The inscriptions recorded by Mr Feltham are in many instances only a bare memorial of name, date, and age, yet these alone will be found useful to the future historian in recording the genealogy of families, as well as a record of the patronymics of the country. Mr Feltham, during his stay in the Island, resided in Ramsey, and commenced his work in the parish of Maughold proceeding on his way southward; it has been thought desirable to commence in the regular order in which the various parishes stand on the records. The inscriptions appear to be taken in the order as they lie in the graveyard, by which the names of the various families are in many instances brought in close proximity. The usual custom of adding the wife's surname tends materially to connect links by which many Manx families are united.

It will be observed that surnames are found to abound in some parishes to their almost exclusion in others, and this it may be said continues in a great degree to the present day. There is one peculiar feature to be noticed in these inscriptions, that out of 2,000 names that are here recorded not twenty bear a double Christian name, adhering as Islanders generally do to their own peculiar customs. At the present time, owing to the greater intercourse and connexion with English families, the fashionable mode of having a double name is becoming more prevalent, and we meet with John Thomas and Mary Jane at every turn.

The oldest dates recorded in the several parishes are as follow:

Patrick	...	...	1724
German Cathedral		...	1663
„	...	...	1698
Michael	...	...	1695
Ballaugh	...	...	1654
Jurby	...	...	1663
Bride	...	...	1688

Marown	...	...	1723
Santon	...	...	1677
Malew	...	...	1578
Arbory	...	...	1690
Rushen	...	...	1657

On the whole it may be said that this forms the most complete record of the dead that is to be met with, and may in point of fact be styled unique, as it gives a copy of every stone up to that date, 1797, with the exception as before mentioned, and as such it is submitted to the members of the Manx Society.

WILLIAM HARRISON.

Rock Mount, 1867.

Since writing the foregoing, Dr Oliver, one of the honorary secretaries of the Manx Society, has obligingly taken a copy of the inscriptions in Kirk Braddan Churchyard to the end of last century, which are given in the Supplement to this volume, thereby rendering the inscriptions for the whole Island complete to that period.

It has been found on examination that numerous records mentioned in the present volume are no longer to be met with, thereby confirming in so short a space of time, the observation of Mr Pettigrew, that "no traces whatever of many of them are now to be found."

It has been thought desirable to give views of the old Churches taken from drawings made in the time of Bishop Wilson; these have been obligingly etched by Miss Oliver expressly for this work, and printed by Mr G. A. Dean, of Douglas, thereby forming an appropriate illustration to the volume as well as a record of the primitive nature of the architecture of Manx Churches.

Mourn not, dear friends, for my decease,
For I with Christ have made my peace;
Life is uncertain, death is sure,
Sin gave the wound, and Christ the cure.

KIRK MICHAEL.

"Where's now my frenzy's pompous furniture?
The turf-built cottage, with its ragged wall
Of mouldering mud, is royalty to me!
The spider's most attenuated thread
Is cord, is cable, to man's tender tie
On earthly bliss; it breaks at every breeze."

There is only one inscription in the Chancel of the Church, to Mrs. Christian Norris and her five children, 6th of July, 1695.

Without the Chancel end, in the churchyard, on a plain tomb, railed in with iron.—"Sleeping in Jesus." Here lieth the body of Thomas Wilson, D.D., Lord Bishop of this Isle; who died March 7th, 1755, aged 93, in the 58th year of his consecration. This monument was executed by his son, Thomas Wilson, D.D., a native of this parish, who in obedience to the express commands of his worthy father, declines giving him the character he so justly deserved. Let this Island speak the rest.

On a plain flat tomb stone, railed in.—Elizabeth Hyldesley, alias Stoker, wife of Bishop Hyldesley, died 27th February, 1763. Mark H., Lord Bishop, died December 2nd, 1772, in the 17th year of his consecration, aged 74.

Philip Moore, Norway merchant, and citizen of London; died at Bishop's Court, December 20th, 1728, aged 78.

Margaret Wilks, alias Woods, wife of the Rev. James Wilks, buried June 13th, 1755, aged 31. And three of her children,—Thomas, Deborah, and James.

Mary Gelling, alias Wilkinson, of Nottingham, buried 4th January, 1773; wife of Richard Gelling, schoolmaster of this parish.

On a head stone erected by Bishop Wilson:—John Riddyard, died at Bishop's Court, April 21st, 1738, aged 47; whose master hath here given this testimony of his integrity, that in twenty years' service he never found cause to charge him with eye-service, fraud, or injustice.

Gustavus Bradford, late of Arksea, in Yorkshire, died at the Whitehouse the 8th June, 1718.

Hic jacet Rev. BALLAUGH.

"What can preserve my life, or what destroy?
An angel's arm can't snatch me from the grave;
Legions of angels can't confine me there."

On a flat tomb.—January 19th, 1771, aged 73, died the Rev. Matthias Curphey, Vicar-General, and rector of this parish. An humble, meek, pacific man. Sound divine, learned, and exemplary; with the Rev. P. Moore, associate revisor of the Manks Scriptures; translated by the Clergy of this Isle—a great, arduous, original work.

On a flat tomb.

Translated hence, the good man never dies,
But, like the day star, only sets to rise.

The Rev. James Wilks, rector of this parish, aged 58 years, was buried June 21st, 1777.

To him to live was Christ, to die was gain;
The sting of death sweet consolation brings:
Hope, anchor of the soul, allays his pain;
He meets his God, with healing in his wings.

Mors heu! pœna quidem tamen est certissima vita.
Janua felicis denique lœta piis
Me licet hic retinent pro tempora vincula mortis.
Spes tamen in Christo non moritura manet
In Christi meritis patrisque clementis amore
Est humilis mea spes hac moriorque fide.

KIRK MAUGHOLD.

"Ere long when Sovereign wisdom wills,
My soul an unknown path shall tread,
And strangely leave, who strangely fills
The frame, and waft me to the dead:
Oh! what is death? 'tis life's last shore,
Whose vanities are vain no more:
Whose all pursuits their goal obtain
And life is all re-touched again.
When in their bright result shall rise
Thoughts, virtues, friendships, griefs, and joys."

IN THE CHAPEL YARD, BALURE.

On an elevated monument.

Here repose the remains of Margaret, wife of Rev. John Crellin, daughter of John Frissel, and granddaughter of Deemster Christian, to whom this monument is erected, by her disconsolate husband; not as an addition to her fame—vain were that thought! But as a testimony, small as it is, of the constant and unfeigned love he bears to the memory of the best of women and of wives.

IN MAUGHOLD CHURCHYARD.

"Why then their loss deplore, that are not lost?
Why wanders wretched thought their tombs around,
In infinite distress?—
They live! they greatly live! a life on earth
Unkindled, unconceived!"

In the notices of burials, is:—

Edmund Christian, who was sometime captain at sea, and afterwards, for a time, Governor of the Isle of Man; he departed this life in Peele Castle, being a prisoner there for some words spoken concerning the King, when the great difference was betwixt the King and Parliament. He was committed by James, Earl of Derby, being then in this Isle, and John Greenhaugh, Governor. He was buried January 22nd, 1660, in Kirk Maughold Church, where he was baptised.

———Mary Christian alias Keruish, wife of David Christian, of Ramsey, buried April 17th, 1756, aged 20

Leaving behind her an only son, then an infant, by whom this monument is now erected, not from an impulse of vanity, but of that affection which he bears to the memory of a parent to whom he was prevented shewing any other mark of duty.

While letter'd marble would in vain impart
The warm emotions of a feeling heart,
Fond contemplation oft approaches here,
To pay the tribute of a silent tear.

IN THE CHURCH YARD.

Alice Busk, wife of Wadsworth Busk, Esq., Attorney-General of the Isle, on the 11th June, 1776, in the 38th year of her age.

Her valuable life was suddenly lost
By a fatal and deplorable accident:
To the heart rending grief
Of one whose happiness, lies buried here:
Whose health, whose ease, whose comfort was her care,
Whose inclinations ere his lips had uttered them,
She caught even from his eye, and regarded as a Law;
Whom to the last she honoured with her love,

And having blest him while she lived,
Blest him also with her expiring breath.
On his distracted mind, the virtues she possest,
Have too deeply stamped the remembrance
Of her untimely death; tho' submitted to by herself
In the most calamitous circumstances
With a degree of fortitude and resignation,
Which Christianity only could inspire;
And which reflected a lustre
On her sex, her character, and her religion.

ST. MATTHEW'S CHAPEL, DOUGLAS.

IN THE CHANCEL.

Sacred to the memory of the Rev. Philip Moore, Rector of Kirk Bride, and officiating minister of the Chapel of Douglas. His education was completed under the auspices of the good Bishop Wilson, and he made a grateful return for this singular advantage, by contributing to the virtuous instruction of youth, being above forty years master of Douglas School. He was likewise principally concerned in revising the memorable translation of the Sacred Scriptures into the Manks language, for which by his learning he was eminently qualified. He was born at Douglas, September 5th, 1705, and died there, January 22nd, 1783. This monument was erected, as a testimony of friendly esteem, at the expence of the Rev. Thomas Wilson, D.D., son of the Bishop.

IN THE CHURCH YARD.

I had no opportunity of taking the inscriptions in Braddan Church Yard, but a particular friend favoured me with these. The violence of the weather rendered three journies of 16 out and 16 miles back, ineffectual; for I could not take the inscriptions in this Church Yard. I left a commission for it to be done, but this after two attempts was given up.

John Tiesin, of Great Clifton, in Cumberland. Insigni pietate puer, genio felici, et pro ætat. ling. Lat. Græc. doctus filio privigno posuit.—P. Moore.

Here lies interred, the Rev. P. Moore, forty years chaplain and schoolmaster in this parish; ob. 1783, æt. 77.

Sis tu semper felix &c. (obliterated.)
For ever may that man be blest,
Who never will these bones molest,
But here for ever let them rest,
Till fire consume this earthly ball,
And Christ shall come to judge us all! !

Optimi Quiqe. minimè Diurnant
Edward Arthure,
Aged 13 years 5 months. Dyed 26th December, 1755.

Benevolent reader, art thou a parent, let thy heart sympathise with parents, and feel with them for the uncertain loan of a hopeful child; but, would'st thou know thy duty and revere the ways of Providence in such dispensations, read and consider the sacred page of Wisdom, 4th chapt., 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, and 14th vs. Go thy way, be silent, learn submission, and adore.

Thomas and Mary Ann Arthure,
Parentes mœsti posuerunt.

Note.—This inscription, as given in the Parochial Tour, (Manx Society, reprint, vol. vi, p. 197,) is stated by the Editor to be incorrect. This corrected copy is taken from the reprint, p. 269.

It is on a flat, oblong stone, about eight yards from the S.W. corner of the church.

MAROWN.

"As the line of life conducts me on
To Death's great court, the prospect seems more fair,
'Tis nature's hospital, that's always open,
To take us in when we have drained the sweets
Of life, or worn our days to age and wretchedness;
Death's then a soft repose, a safe retreat."

Margaret Christian, wife of John Christian, of Cumberland, Esq., and daughter of John Taubman, Esq., of the Bowling-green, in this parish, died February 1st, 1778, aged 29.

Erected by her afflicted Parents.

On a white marble in the Chancel.

ALSO, IN CHANCEL.

Interred here is the body of Julius Cæsar, a virtuous youth, and esteemed for his proficiency in academic learning. Buried 9th January, 1739, aged 23.

John Reddish, Esq., Lt.-Col. of the Army, died 17th May, 1717, aged 69.

When he sought Death, armed with sword and shield,
Death was afraid to meet him in the field:
But when his weapons he had laid aside,
Death like a coward struck him—And he died!

Sep. 9, 1686. Mr. William ——, Ensign of Castle Rushen.

Peter Heywood, of Heywood, Esq. Inscription not legible.

In the Chancel wall, on a small stone.

Elin. Corwyn, daughter of Robt. Corwyn, of Cumberland, who was wife to Henry Staffarton, receiver of the Castle, who departed in great mikeness and that patience Christ did. 1578.

This is the oldest date of any tomb in the Island.

IN THE CHURCH YARD.

Margaret Christian, wife of John Christian, Esq., of Unerigg, in Cumberland, daughter of John Taubman, Esq., of the Bowling-green, and Esther his wife, 1st February, 1778, aged 29.

Tho' called away in the prime of life from the fairest prospects of human felicity; from the delighted hopes of most indulgent parents; from the tender affection of a loving husband; from the early promise of an only son, and from an affluent fortune; yet did she not repine. Innocence, virtue, and unaffected sanctity, enabled her to meet the awful summons with devout resignation. The esteem and admiration of the wise and good; the dearest love of those that knew her best; the agonising sorrows of disconsolate friends, pleaded in vain for her longer stay; yet was not her death untimely. Blessed with wisdom above her sex, and virtue beyond her years, her task she soon finished. A specimen was all that was required, and now with the dead, that die in the Lord, she resteth from her labours, and her works do follow her.

Learn hence, ye rich, unthinking, young and gay,
Duly to prize the morning of your day;
Dark clouds may intercept your noontide sun,
Or night o'ertake you, ere your work be done.

Knowest thou, O man! who passest by this spot,
That rest from labour is the just man's lot;
His body buried here lies mixt with earth,
His soul, set free, enjoys a second birth;
And, disencumber'd from its clay, flies light,
Springs thro' the air beyond the realms of night.
Wrapt up in pleasing hope, it mounts on high,
To meet its Lord....Let sinners fear to die.

In the register it is stated: In the year 1654, Kewish and Callow, of Kirk Maughold, who were executed at Hango Hill, near Castletown, were buried in Kirk Malew, down in the way from the Porch:—That Mr. Wm. Christian, of Ronaldsway, receiver-general, was shot to death at Hango Hill, January 2nd, 1662, for surrendering the keys of the garrison to Oliver Cromwell's army. He died most penitently and most courageously, prayed earnestly, made an excellent speech, and next day was buried in the Chancel of Kirk Malew.

CASTLETOWN CHAPEL.

"The voice of Reason thunders in my ear,
Thus thou, ere long, must join thy kindred clay;
No more those nostrils breathe the vital air;
No more those eyelids open on the day!"

Thomas, son of Thos. Horton, Esq., Governor of this Isle; born at Chadderton, Lancashire, 17th March, 1721; died at Castletown, 20th July, 1726.

John Quayle, Esq., Comptroller, 5th July, 1755, aged 62.

James Horton, Gent., Dep. Governor and Receiver-General, interred 18th December, 1734, aged 40.

His Excellency John Wood, Esq., Governor in Chief, Captain Genl. Chancellor of this Island 16 years, died 30th April, 1777, aged 65. Was the 1st Regal Govr. on this establishment, and took possession of the regalities of Man, and the Isles for King George 3rd, 11th July, 1765.

On a neat marble.

Richard Tyldesley, Esq., of the Friary, Lt. 39 Regt. foot, who died at Guardalope, 21st July, 1794, aged 21 years. He lived highly esteemed and died much regretted.

Arms.

Daniel Callow, Esq., H.K., who, in discouraging circumstances, cheerfully accepted a Commission to attend the business of his country in the South of England, where he died, zealously engaged in the duty of that appointment, June 18th, 1790, aged 39. As a grateful testimony of their respect for his virtues, publick spirit, and services, the House of Keys, with others of his countrymen and friends, have caused this monument to be erected.

ST. MARK'S CHAPEL.

Mr Thomas Farrer, one of the first Trustees, has a monument in the Chapel yard.

She was wise, active, benevolent, generous.

He was industrious, sober, honest.

They, were both Christians.

Their blended virtue ensured their private comfort.

Attached social esteem and confidence had enabled them to raise a large family, which they formed to goodness by their example of uniform unaffected piety, and a steady and successful industry. This worthy pair in an humble, but enviable obscurity, lived together 24 years, as husband and wife, as real and sincere friends; while that connection lasted, they were animated by one soul, one spirit, one common principle of integrity and piety; now they occupy one tomb, waiting the call and approbation of their God.

4.—Documents illustrating the History of the Isle of Man, collected from the Journals of the House of Keys, and published by authority of the House. Edited by J. M. Jeffcott, Esq., H.K., High Bailiff of Castletown.

5.—Manx Miscellany.

WORKS SUGGESTED FOR PUBLICATION.

1.—A Manuscript History of the Isle of Man, from A.D. 1000 to 1805. Written by the late Rev. W. Fitzsimmons, Episcopal Minister of Carrubber's Close, Edinburgh, and a native of this Island.

2.—Memoirs of Mark Hildesley, Lord Bishop of Sodor and Man, Master of Sherbourne Hospital and Prebend of Lincoln (under whose auspices the Holy Scriptures were translated into the Manx Language), by the Rev. Wheedon Butler. 1790. With Selections from the Appendix, containing many interesting Letters to and from his Clergy, &c., together with additional Correspondence, not inserted therein, of a local character.

3.—Tabular Statement of the Archdeacons, Rectors, Vicars, and Incumbents of the several Parishes and Districts of Man; with the Dates of their Inductions; in whose Presentation, whether in the Gift of the Crown or Bishop; and Cause of Vacancy.

4.—Manx Miscellanies, containing Biographical Notices of the Kings, Governors, Bishops, Deemsters, Keys, and other Officials, from the earliest times, chronologically arranged.—Proceedings respecting Scrope, Earl of Wiltshire; 1399.—Proceedings respecting the Abbey of Rushen; 1541.—Grant of Abbey Lands; 1610.—Lord Manchester's Decree respecting Abbey Lands; 1632.—Appeal allowed from the Bishop to York, and Proceedings thereon.—Order of Procession at Tynwald; 1735-1770.—Nomination of Derby Fort; 1654.—Lord Derby's Letter to apply Money to build the Chapel of Castletown.—A Grant from Henry, Earl of Derby, dated Latham, 1593, with a Confirmation of the same signed by Thomas (Merryke) Sodor et Man, 1603—a curious document worth lithographing.—Dialogue (in rhyme) at the Falls near Snaefield, between some Peasants, inhabitants of the Back Settlements of Mona, upon an unexpected introduction of English Laws and Taxes, pended as the words were spoken, and translated by Jenken M'Mannan, a Lover of the old Establishment.—A Manuscript Account of the Island, dated 1775.—A Full and Interesting Account of the Embarkation of James, second Duke of Atholl, and Suite (names given), at Liverpool, on the 2th of June, 1735, to take possession of his newly acquired territories in Man, (Manuscript).—A Manuscript of the Manners, Customs, and Superstitions of the Islanders.—The Charge of the Revenue of the Isle of Man for one whole year, commencing from 5th October, 1759, to 5th October, 1760, including the Abbey Temporalities, Disbursements for Salaries, and Pensions to Officers, Soldiers, &c., for Rushen and Peel Garrisons, and Douglas, Ramsey, and Derby Forts; under the control and accountantship of Daniel Mylrea, Receiver-General.—An Account of the Isle of Man, in Manx Verse, from a Manuscript written in 1762, by Joseph Bridson.—"Godred Crovan"—a Poem by Chatterton.

6.—Manx Proverbs, National Songs, and Legends. Collected and edited by the Rev. T. E. Brown, M.A., late Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford, and late Vice-Principal of King William's College, Isle of Man.

7.—An unpublished Manuscript, with the Notes, supposed to be written between 1643 and 1648, by a Scion of the ancient House of "Blundell of Crosby," near Liverpool, and entitled "An Exact Chronological and History Discovery of the hitherto unknown Isle of Man," &c. In Seacombe's History of the House of Stanley, Preston edition, printed by Sergent in 1793, the Editor observes that "there is not one who has given any tolerable account of the Isle of Man before Mr James Chaloner (Governor for the Lord Fairfax) and the great and learned Mr. Blundell, of Crosby, who prudently retired hither during the usurpation, whereby he preserved his person in peace and security and his estate from all manner of depredation. This gentleman, being a person of polite learning, employed his leisure hours in collecting the history and antiquities of the Isle of Man, and by his manuscripts, which I have seen, gave posterity the clearest and most correct account of it."

THE NINTH REPORT

OF THE

COUNCIL OF THE MANX SOCIETY,

FOR THE YEAR ENDING MAY 1, 1867.

DURING the past Year the progress made in printing the Works mentioned in the Report of last year, has not been so great as the Council anticipated. This delay, however will be found to be fully compensated by the increased care which the Editors of the works now submitted to the Members, have been enabled to devote to them.

The first forming the 12th Volume of the Society's Publications is entitled "An Abstract of the Laws, Customs, and Ordinances of the Isle of Man, compiled by John Parr, Esq., formerly one of the Deemsters of the Island, with Notes by James Gell, Esq., Her Majesty's Attorney-General for the Isle of Man. This Volume consists chiefly of preliminary matter which the Editor considered a necessary introduction to the body of his work, and which required additional care in its production for the due interpretation thereof. The Second Volume, embracing an Abstract of the Laws with explanatory extracts is in a forward state, and is expected to be ready during the present year.

The second work forming the 13th Volume of the Manx Series is "The Manx Dictionary in two parts. First, Manx and English, as prepared by Dr Kelly, and the second, English and Manx, entitled "An English and Manx Dictionary, prepared from Dr Kelly's Triglott Dictionary, with alterations and additions from the Dictionaries of Archibald Cregeen, and John Ivon Mosley, by the Rev William Gill, Vicar of Malew, and the Rev J. Thos. Clarke, late chaplain of St Mark's. In presenting the Members with this work, the Council have to congratulate the learned Editors upon their arduous duties being at length brought to a close, and are convinced the Members of the Manx Society will fully appreciate the great labour they have bestowed in bringing this, it may be called "National Work" before them. It is the first instance we have of an English and Manx Dictionary, and it is impossible to conclude the notice of this volume without returning the thanks of the Council and of the Members of the Manx Society to the Editors for the very careful and judicious manner in which they have performed their responsible duties.

The Council considered it advisable to have the two volumes of this work bound in one for facility of reference, but to be reckoned as two volumes, which they trust will meet with the approval of the Members.

The works in progress are the various papers relating to the Isle of Man, which have been published in the Cambrian Archæological Journal have been brought to a close, are now in the hands of the Editors, the Rev E. L. Barnwell, the Rev J. Geo. Cumming and Dr Oliver, who will supply additional papers accompanied with numerous illustrations. The volume is expected to be ready during the present year.

The Journals of the House of Keys which have so liberally been accorded by that honourable body to the Manx Society for publication, have now been copied, and the selection of papers which the Committee have made, placed in the hands of J. M. Jeffcott, Esq., High Bailiff of Castletown, who has consented to edit the same, with such notes as may appear necessary. This valuable record of Manx affairs will now be put to press with as little delay as possible, and a volume it is hoped will be ready before the close of the year.

The Council regret to state that no further information has been received respecting the missing M.S.S. of the late James Burman, Esq., relative to William Christian, otherwise "Illiam Dhone;" although every search has been instituted for that purpose. Abstracts of the trial, however, are now being made by Mr John F. Gill, and the work will come out under the joint editorship of that gentleman and the Attorney-General, accompanied with documents illustrative of the time of Lord Fairfax's residence here; so that we may now hope to see this long promised account of Manx History for the first time made public.

The Manuscript mentioned in Feltham's Tour, 1798, containing the "Monumental Inscriptions from the Churches and Churchyards in the several Parishes of the Isle of Man," has been placed in the hands of William Harrison, Esq., under whose editorial care we may shortly expect it to appear accompanied with an introductory notice.

A Volume is also in preparation consisting of Miscellaneous Papers that may in any manner illustrate the early history or statistics of the Island. Members or others, who may have such documents in their possession, by kindly placing them at the disposal of the Council will confer a favour upon the Society, and may rely upon every care being taken of them.

The financial statement of the Treasurer appended hereto, will shew a satisfactory state of the funds of this Society.

Read and adopted at the annual general meeting.
